

TPH is looking for a Player Development Coach & Mentor and Nashville Jr. Predators 18U AAA Head Coach to join our team in Nashville!

Player Development Coaches & Mentors do exactly what their job titles state: coach athletes directly in areas related to their sport and mentor them on “the process” of reaching their potential in sport, school, and, most importantly, life. These individuals multi-task and often work hand-in-hand with the actual director in business, operations, admin, and enhancing the overall student-athlete experience. Player Development Coaches & Mentors often specialize in components of athletic instruction and deliver the actual training to the student-athletes. They are 100% athlete-focused, wear multiple hats, and have an opportunity to grow to become Heads of their actual sport or Directors themselves. This position also comes with a strong focus on providing input in developing a strategic plan to drive student-athlete interest in the Academy model and building a database of prospective student-athletes.

As the Nashville Jr. Predators 18U AAA Head Coach, this individual will be able to recruit the best players from all over the country and build a team to take the program to the next level. This individual should also have the expertise, connections, and willingness to move players to juniors and college opportunities.
